Inquiring Reporter

"What one thing do you think will best help Salem's progress in the next decade?" The Inquiring Reporter's question this week brought the following replies:

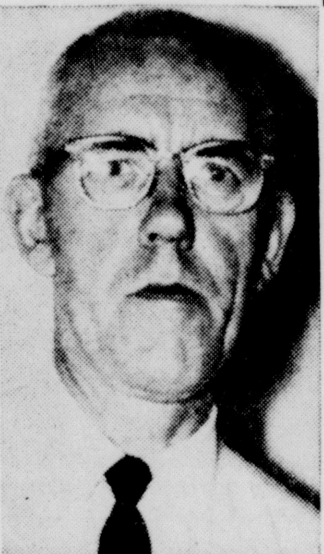

Mrs. Don Beeler, Franklin Rd., housewife: "Salem is already unusually fortunate in the wide variety of business and industry available. Even so, new industry would be welcome. Our recreational facilities are good, but an indoor pool would be appreciated by our young people. What Salem needs most, however, is more citizen support for the good things we now have."

Walter Taylor, 2068 Edgewood Dr., assistant personnel director, Eljer Plumbingware Division: "First, let's forget we're an old Quaker town. To show progressiveness we must have new buildings, wider main streets and up-to-date school programs. It is detracting to see antiquated downtown buildings which are reminiscent of a bygone era. We must think progressively and act positively in all endeavors."

Mrs. Paul Campanelli, 1472 Manor Dr., housewife: "Progress will be made with the use of positive action to support our educational system, local industry and to assist in providing the facilities for new industry, followed by a well-planned, aggressive annexation of suburban areas."

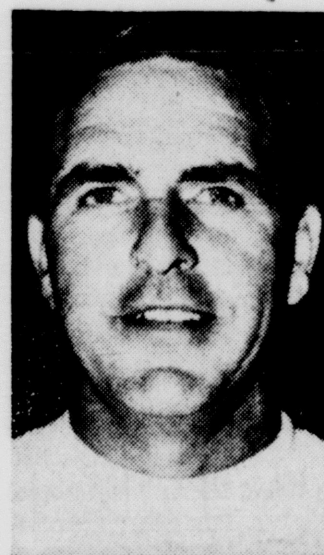

John Cantley, 1171 Liberty St., owner, Suburban Markets: "What would help Salem progress most would be and adequate water supply, plus disposal plant facilities for the whole city. There is going to be more urban building. If we want more industry we must have adequate water and sewage facilities, plus a long-range street program."

Mrs. Harold Deitch, 934 N. Union Ave., housewife: "More important than a renaissance in the physical endowments of our city, I feel we need a renewal of a greater sense of pride. Enthusiasm is contagious and when people are enthusiastic about their city, they 'get the job done.' Many leading industrialists say 'Show me a successful enterprise and I will show you an organization that has done an effective public relations job.' If this be true, each Salem resident should leave the road to passive acceptance, and become a real booster."

Mrs. Thomas V. Schafer, 880 Newgarden Ave., owner, Compact Beauty Salon: "Salem needs a look - to - the - future planning commission, consisting of citizens from different groups or clubs, representatives of churches, merchants, manufacturers and laborers with the authority to say and enforce a 'no' for things that would be detrimental to Salem and a big 'yes' for a new recreational center about five times larger than the Memorial Building with a large indoor pool."

Bob Campi, 957 W. Pershing St., partner, Campi Service Co.: "Being in business and meeting quite a few businessmen from other cities who like Salem because of the friendly way they are greeted here, I definitely believe that sincere friendliness toward others at all times is the main thing that would help Salem progress the most, even though there are many material things that would be beneficial."

Jack C. Klein, 1215 N. Lincoln Ave., marketing manager, Deming Division, Crane Co.: "Planned development and expansion of our city sewage system into the rapidly growing fringe areas, to parallel the expansion of city water lines. An adequate sewerage system will play a major part in the future development and stimulate both new residential and industrial growth. The apathy in not recognizing the importance of an adequate sewerage system results in reduced property value, retards industrial growth and, most important, health hazards."

National GOP Finance Head Is Replaced

CLEVELAND (AP) — Courtney Burton, Republican national finance chairman who engineered the GOP out of debt in three years, has been replaced, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reported today.

The newspaper said the appointment would be announced today in Washington, and that Burton's successor will try to raise $12.3 million for the coming presidential campaign.

"I'm glad they've found someone to take this on," Burton said. "I've been worried about their getting a guy. I have to be tackled right away."

Burton, former mayor of suburban Gates Mills, took over when the GOP was $750,000 in debt in 1961 and has pulled it $800,000 into the black.

"Actually, I've been out as chairman since the convention in San Francisco," Burton said. "I never expected to stay on, nor wanted to."

"I've been trying to get someone to take over this job. Especially Dan Gurney, who has been the Goldwater fund raiser."

"I've been not a Goldwater, not a Rockefeller, not a Scranton man. Rigidly neutral. I've been for the party."

"I believe in Barry Goldwater and his team. There wasn't

Goldwater Addresses GOP Meeting

U.S. Foreign Policy May Be Top Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has told Republican congressional candidates that foreign policy — and Viet Nam — will be the major campaign issue if President Johnson backs off from his Southeast Asia stand.

Newsmen were barred from Friday night's meeting in a hotel banquet room, but reporters outside the door heard the GOP's presidential nominee say of Johnson:

"If he doesn't continue what he has started to do, then I can assure him that not only Viet Nam but all of his foreign policy is going to be the major issue of the campaign."

Goldwater noted that some of his political foes have accused him of being "trigger happy." But the Arizona conservative, according to a Republican who heard the speech, said a decision to order naval air strikes against North Viet Nam's PT boat fleet would neutralize that charge.

"The Republican party has not led this country into a war this century. We are the party of peace," the senator was heard to say.

Republicans have always preserved the peace, he said, because they understand the use of power.

Newsmen were able to hear only part of Goldwater's re-

Grandmother Of JFK Dies At Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Fitzgerald, grandmother of the late President John F. Kennedy, died today. She was 98.

The widow of a onetime Boston mayor, she watched the inauguration and other major events in the career of President Kennedy on television.

On election day in 1960 she was recovering from illness but followed the results on TV. She said then of the newly-elected President: "I did all I could for him with prayer; he'll be a wonderful president because he is a wonderful man."

President Kennedy visited his grandmother in 1962 when he came to Boston to vote.

In mid-summer of 1963 she happily posed for news photographers amid a family group that included 10 of her 39 grandchildren.

On her 97th birthday — Oct. 31, 1962 — she attended Mass at the home of her son, Thomas A. Fitzgerald. Her nephew, the Rev. John F. Fitzgerald, celebrated the Mass, and the President's mother, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, visited her.

The former Josephine Mary Hannon, she was born in Acton, Mass. She was married there in 1889 to the man who later was mayor of Boston.

Cyprus Feud Widens, Turks Deny Air Strike

Greeks Seek UN Meeting

BULLETIN
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Turkey asked today for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council to take up Greek Cypriot attacks on Turkish Cypriots.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish air force jets roared over Cyprus today in a second show of support for the embattled Turkish Cypriot minority, a Turkish Cypriot spokesman announced.

None of the planes apparently opened their guns as they swooped over the island's northwestern coast, scene of bitter fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots for the past three days. However, a Turkish Cypriot spokesman said the aircraft had been ordered to "intervene when necessary."

The Cyprus dispute veered into another crisis stage Friday after Turkish jet fighters swept over Polis, a small port in northwest Cyprus.

The Greek Cypriot government said the jets had strafed the village, hitting an Italian cargo ship in the harbor. It said it would bring a charge of aggression against Turkey before the U.N. Security Council and ordered the 30,000-man Greek Cypriot national guard on a standby alert.

Turkey had emphatically denied that its planes had done any shooting Friday, but it promised they would be back today on a reconnaissance. If U.S. peacemaking efforts don't show any results, the Turkish government statement warned, Turkey might bomb the island to aid the Turkish Cypriot cause.

In Athens, Greek military leaders went into an emergency conference to consider the military implications of the new crisis.

Greek Defense Minister Peter Garoufalas warned that the "unjustified aerial attack" had created "a highly dangerous situation which might lead to war."

The Greek Cypriots said four American-made Supersabre jets had strafed Polis Harbor, hitting an Italian freighter which had just taken on a cargo of copper ore.

The freighter, St. George, radioed this message to the British-owned copper mines after the incident, a spokesman said: "Safe at 1930 (7:30 p.m.) after being machine-gunned. Crew safe."

The Italian embassy in Nicosia said the ship had been hit. Gunfire continued in the rugged mountains and along the coast north of Nicosia and the Turkish Cypriots took refuge at

High U.S. Authorities Express Views

Chances of Major Expansion In Viet Nam War Lessening

WASHINGTON (AP) — High U.S. authorities said today chances of a major expansion of the Vietnamese war appear to be lessening.

They reported that there had been no sign, so far, of mass troop movements in Communist China or North Viet Nam. And they said there had been no evidence that Communist sea forces or planes were hunting targets.

President Johnson had near-unanimous support from Congress to employ a flexible military response if necessary to meet any new Communist thrust in Southeast Asia.

By votes of 414 to 0 and 88 to 2, respectively, the House and Senate Friday approved a joint resolution that "approves and supports" Johnson's determination "to take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression."

South Viet Nam, focal point of the anti-Communist struggle in Southeast Asia, remained under virtual martial law, imposed Friday by Premier Nguyen Khanh.

Redeployment of beefed-up U.S. strength in the South Pacific continued. A squadron of supersonic jet fighters, newly arrived from the United States, stopped briefly in Hawaii, then headed for the Western Pacific and Southeast Asia.

At the United Nations the Security Council invited both North and South Viet Nam to take part in debate on the situation in Southeast Asia.

While optimistic that the situation would continue to ease, U.S. officials did not rule out the possibility that it might take the communists a while to deploy their forces if they planned a major move.

The feeling here was that the North Vietnamese had been taken by surprise when U.S. planes bombed four torpedo bases and an oil refinery Wednesday, as retaliation for Communist attacks on two U.S. destroyers.

The resolution passed by Congress had been requested by Johnson to show bipartisan support for his Viet Nam stance.

In the House, although there were no votes against it, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., voted present, and Rep. Eugene B. Siler, R-Ky., was paired against the measure and said he would have voted no had he been present.

The two senators who opposed the resolution were Democrats Wayne Morse of Oregon and Ernest Gruening of Alaska, both persistent critics of administration policy in Southeast Asia.

Agents Nab 'Runner' With 'Bug' Slips

A flourishing "numbers" business between East Liverpool and Canton was uncovered Friday afternoon when federal agents seized the auto of a Stark County resident in Lisbon while he was transporting a quantity of slips.

Internal Revenue agents seized the 1963 Oldsmobile owned and driven by Donald Poulos, 38, of Canton under a little-known federal law which permits seizure of vehicles in which wagering slips are transported, Elmer Stapleton, assistant chief of the intelligence division in the Cleveland District IRS office, said. Poulos was not arrested, the spokesman said, explaining that the federal law requiring $50 gambling stamps applies only to those who actually accept bets and does not cover alleged pickup men.

The car was taken to Youngstown pending forfeiture proceedings in federal district court.

The Treasury agent said a stack of "slips" measuring about six inches high was found in the auto. He did not indicate whether the "slips" were being transported to or from East Liverpool, but other sources said "numbers slips" have been collected in East Liverpool and taken to Canton for several years.

Poulos was seized as he turned off Route 30 onto E. Washington St., a short cut used

Kaiser Plant to Resume Operations

COLUMBIANA — Normal operations are expected to begin at the Kaiser Refractories Co. plant at midnight Sunday when the 150 employees return to work on their regular shifts, following a strike which began at midnight July 31.

The action is the result of a week of negotiations between company officials and representatives of Local 523, United Brick and Clay Workers. The union signed and ratified the contract Friday.

Some of the points of the contract covered wages, vacations, pensions and hospital insurance, according to a company spokesman. The contract, as agreed upon, is exactly the same as that agreed to in the refractory industry.

Younsters From 3 States Attend Quaker Canyon Camp

Camp activities at the Friends' Quaker Canyon, Damascus, again this summer are attracting hundreds of boys and girls from churches in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

One hundred and forty-two youngsters participated this past week in "Camp J-Hi" for those of junior high school age. Three camp periods are held, with a total of 426 registered.

Although the primary reason for church camp is the spiritual enrichment of the individual, the physical, social and mental development is not overlooked. The cabin - dotted grounds cover 22 acres.

Other activities include: archery, horseback riding, swimming, miniature golf and a field trip to Nelson Ledges State Park. Mrs. N. A. Lewis of 338 Jennings Ave., (not pictured) has served as official camp registrar. Rev. Richard Tolson of Columbus is the camp pastor and Rev. and Mrs. Earle Smith of Cleveland, camp musicians.

Conference to make 2 Decisions

Friends Program For Yearly Meeting Set

Two major changes will be considered by delegates to the 151st session of Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends Aug. 25-30 at Damascus. The association is made up of Friends churches in seven states—Ohio, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Iowa, Virginia, Michigan and Rhode Island and Ontario, Canada.

Up for consideration are: (1) An invitation from the trustees of Canton Malone College to hold future Yearly Meeting sessions on the college campus. As a part of its $5 million development program, the college will have additional facilities, which will accommodate the hundreds who attend each year.

(2) The Evangelical Friends Alliance. This project combines Ohio, Kansas, Rocky Mountain and Oregon Yearly Meetings. According to church officials, there has been a growing desire on the part of Friends in the Alliance "for a closer relationship with others of like precious faith." A report on the Friends Alliance will be given on the opening day of YM.

Established in 1813, Ohio Yearly Meeting held its first sessions in the Short Creek Quarterly Meeting House. The first YM house west of the Alleghenies was built at Mt. Pleasant, O., a short distance from Short Creek, in 1814-15. In the fall of 1866 the first sessions of the YM were held in Damascus, then in alternate years at Mt. Pleasant. Since 1910 the meetings have been held at Damascus, with a few exceptions.

Missionaries To Speak

Two missionaries from Formosa will have a prominent part on the YM program. They are the Misses Ella Ruth Hutson and Freda Farmer. Miss Hutson will be speaker for the annual missionary service, Sunday, Aug. 30, at 2:30 p. m., in the YM house, while Miss Farmer will speak in the Damascus Friends Church. The Misses Hutson and Farmer also will have a part in the annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Union Tuesday, Aug. 25, at 3:30 p. m. in the YM house. At the same hour the Men's Missionary Movement will hold its session in the Damascus church.

Rev. Sarver Guest Speaker

Rev. Keith Sarver of Whittier, Calif., will be guest speaker for the evening evangelistic services and the daily expository hour at 11. General superintendent of California YM of Friends, Rev. Sarver is also superintendent of Missions for Alaska and Central America and is editor of the California Friend, the denominational paper.

Dr. Everett L. Cattell, president of Malone College, will be speaker for the Ministry and Oversight Body Wednesday, Aug. 26, at 3:30 p. m. His subject will be "Responsibility of Pastor to Ministry and Oversight." On Sunday morning, Aug. 30, at 9:30, Dr. Cattell will speak to the YM Bible School on the theme, "What Is Needed in Christian Education."

Dr. William Green, who is associated with Malone, will be the speaker for the Youth meetings Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 9 a. m.

Others To Be Heard

Leaders for prayer and praise services Tuesday through Sunday at 8:15 a. m., include: Rev. Charles Robinson of Norfolk, Va.; Rev. George Bigley, new pastor of Bethel Friends Church, Poland; Rev. Edwin Jeffries, RD 3, Marengo; Rev. Earl Kelbaugh of Newport News, Va.; Rev. Linwood Johnson of Hays, Va., and Rev. Roy Taylor of Pleasant Garden, N.C.

Presiding at the various services will be Rev. Chester Stanley of Damascus, general superintendent of OYM; Rev. Lawrence Cox, Adrian, Mich.; Rev. Ralph Smallwood, Greensboro, N. C.; Rev. Glenn Althouse, Marysville, O., formerly of Salem; Prof. Amos Henry, Canton; Rev. Leonard Borton, Battle Creek, Mich.; Rev. Edward Escolme, Damascus; Rev. S. Sherman Brantingham, Salem; Rev. Milton Coleman, Mansfield and Eldon Snyder, Barberton.

Rev. Wayne Ickes, St. Clairsville, formerly of Salem, will be one of the speakers for the closing Sunday evening service. Rev. Ickes will speak in the Damascus Friends Church.

Films will feature the Children's meetings, which will be held daily at 9:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m. in the Damascus Church, Tuesday through Saturday. The Junior Church sessions are at 11 a. m. daily.

Finding the Way

Small Bridge First

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

For more than 16 years, thousands of visitors to the United States and Canada from almost every country of the world have been the recipients of warm and sincere hospitality. Under the auspices of various organizations, such as World Hospitality, these visitors not only saw buildings, wonders of nature and factories. They spent weekends with new friends, explored kitchens and backyards, helped broil a steak or shared a family conversation.

Valuable as is this hospitality, no one supposed that it can solve international tensions. Life isn't quite that simple. Yet over and over again it has provided the bridge of friendship.

someone in a different ethnic, cultural, racial or educational pattern. We are so busy entertaining our friends that we become strangers to those who are outside our little circles.

THE PROBLEMS of the world are far too complex for any of us to solve by ourselves. Chatting in your own back yard with a man of a different accent or skin tone or cultural background won't solve them all, either. But it will build that small bridge.

It's something that any one of us can do now. It might be exciting to see what would happen if that movement spread across this hemisphere!

Assembly of God

To Hear Armstrongs

Rev. and Mrs. Roy Armstrong, missionaries on furlough of their station in the Philippines, will be guest speakers at the 10:45 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. worship services Sunday at the First Assembly of God Church of which he is a former minister.

During the morning service they will tell of their work at one of the Bible Training Colleges in the Philippines, and at the evening service will show films of the missionary work being done there.

Rev. and Mrs. Armstrong resigned their pastorate at the Salem church to accept appointments to the Philippines.

Rev. Paul Taylor is present pastor of the church.

IRS FILES SUIT

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service has filed suit in U. S. District Court to collect $1,507,586 in alleged delinquent taxes from Sydney L. Albert, former Akron financier, and three companies.

The suit was filed Friday against Albert and the three companies he once controlled—Lake City Malleable Inc., Lake City Malleable Co., which took over the first company, and Machinery Terminals Inc. An IRS lawyer said the taxes that were owed for 1956 and 1957.

HEART ATTACK FATAL

CLEVELAND (AP)—The director of the Topeka, Kan., public library suffered a fatal heart attack aboard an airliner at Hopkins Airport Friday.

Horace Moses, 57, who headed the library since 1950, was flying to New York with his wife, Mabel. They were to sail from New York for a three-week stay in Europe.

Highlighting the program at the Sunday School picnic of the Winona Methodist Church set for 1 p.m. Sunday at the Winona Playground will be an illustrated talk by Rev. James R. Hartland, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Sylvania, on his recent trip to the Holy Land.

Rev. Hartland, formerly pastor of the Winona Methodist Church while he was attending Mount Union College, Mrs. Hartland and their three children will be guests at the event.

A native of Johnstown, Pa., he also attended the University of Pittsburgh and Boston University. His trip to the Holy Land covered six weeks. He has also served churches at Springfield, Mass., Rochester, Pa., and Lakewood.

Persons attending the picnic should bring their own table service and a picnic lunch. Beverage will be furnished. The table committee is composed of the Older Youth Class, taught by Paul Gipp.

Lael Class, with Leonard Lance, teacher, will be in charge of the program.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Questions and Answers

Q—What causes aneurysm of the circle of Willis? Is it serious? Is there any age limit?

A—The aneurysm is a bulging of the wall of an artery and is usually due to a developmental weakness but it may also be caused by some types of infection. Because the circle of Willis is a part of the arterial system at the base of the brain, an aneurysm in this location is serious. When the outpouching becomes very large it is apt to rupture, especially in persons who have a high blood pressure.

This disease is rare in children and commonest between the ages of 35 and 65. If the victim survives a first hemorrhage from this type of aneurysm, he is very likely to get recurrences. A surgeon can prevent recurrences in some cases by tying off the carotid artery in the neck or going into the brain itself and removing the aneurysm.

Q—I had my oviducts tied off nine years ago. Is it possible for the tubes to function again so that I will become pregnant?

A—It is possible for the tubes spontaneously to become open again after several years of being tied. How this happens is not known but it doesn't occur more than once in about 10,000 cases. Furthermore, attempts to re-establish the tubes by a second operation are almost universally unsuccessful.

Q—What is the difference between linitis plastica and other cancers? Is it inherited? Does it affect all victims the same way?

A—Linitis plastica refers to a leathery tumor of the stomach wall. It grows more slowly than most forms of stomach cancer. Even though more than one member of a family might have this disease, it is not considered hereditary. Any disease may affect different persons differently but, in general, linitis plastica would gradually limit the capacity of the stomach so the victim could eat very little a time. He would be likely to regurgitate some of the food eaten and, as the disease progressed, there would be a steady loss of weight.

Q—My druggist says we do not get enough iodine in the area where I live. Would iodine tablets help to relieve nervous tension? How many iodine tablets should be taken daily?

A—Although iodine is an essential element, the body needs very little (about one milligram a week). In areas where the water is low in iodine, goiters—not nervous tension—will develop if iodine is not supplied from some other source. Instead of iodine tablets it is better to use iodized salt, which contains one part of sodium iodide to 100,000 parts of table salt.

HELD IN SHOOTING

CINCINNATI (AP)—Lee Arthur Henley, 13, faces trial for first degree murder for shooting a store clerk who would not sell him 6 per cent beer.

Henley was indicted on the charge Friday. Police say he tried to buy the beer at a suburban grocery June 27, but was refused by Peter Mazes Jr., 37, assistant manager of the store. The youth came back later and shot Mazes, officers said.

History Today

Today is Saturday, Aug. 8, the 221st day of 1964. There are 145 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1829, the first steam locomotive in America, the "Stourbridge Lion," was put into service at Honesdale, Pa. Operating on a wooden-railed tramway at a coal mine. The locomotive, imported from England, was regarded as a failure and soon was dismantled.

On this date: In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte sailed for the island of St. Helena where he died in exile.

In 1846, the U.S. House approved the Wilmot Proviso, forbidding slavery in territory to be purchased from Mexico.

In 1940, the German air force began its concentrated bombing of England.

Ten years ago — United Nations Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjöld appealed to member nations not ignore the U.N. at international conferences outside the U.N. framework.

Five years ago — Floods were reported to have claimed 648 lives on Formosa.

One year ago — A masked bandit gang held up a British mail train, escaping with more than $17 million.

Still Just A Dream

The Lakes to River Freeway, now under construction at the East Liverpool and Ashtabula terminals, was, at one time, just the dream of highway planners and affected communities which recognize the need of a limited access, north-south highway connecting Lake Erie with the Ohio River.

On Monday, a new section of the highway, that part extending from East Liverpool north to the Route 170 intersection, will be dedicated and opened to traffic and old bottlenecks in the Pottery City will disappear. All this the result of planning, cooperation and action on the part of civic officials, who formed the Riverlake Association, and the Ohio Department of Highways.

ment of Highways.

This same sort of action will be required to get the Highway Department to speed up plans for the relocation of U.S. 62 in the Salem district. As it is, the Route 62 improvement is so many years away from construction that it isn't funny to the voters of this district who travel about the state and notice the extensive grading and paving work that is going on elsewhere where millions of dollars are being spent—part of it our tax money.

Our faith in the State Highway Department will be renewed when we know that the state has purchased the right-of-way for the new Route 62 and the project put on a definite program. Until then it's still just a dream.

Herbert Hoover At 90

It is one of the behavior oddities of the American people that we admire Sir Winston Churchill extravagantly and congratulate him en masse on his 89th birthday recently yet are diffident about our own "great man"—Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Hoover will be 90 on Monday. By any standard of measurement—personal accomplishment, public service, breadth of interest, depth of purpose, integrity, insight, courage and leadership—he is one of the great men of his generation.

His status in America is flawed by a single circumstance—the fact he was president of the United States when a worldwide economic collapse occurred in the late '20s.

It became a prime political project of the political opposition at the time to smear his name and reputation, in order to make it appear that he personally had been responsible for the depression that ensued in the United States. The project was carried out so expertly that until the second campaign of Dwight D. Eisenhower the Hoover smear was still being exploited by his one-time political opponents.

He rose above this long ago, just as Winston Churchill has outlived the political opponents who caused him to be voted out of office after he had served Britain with historic distinction in World War II.

But the moral is too pointed and too poignant to be shrugged off by the rest of us.

Greatness in our contemporaries is recognized by most of us only when we have gained perspective. Until then, the stature of the great seems no greater than the stature of the pygmies snapping at their heels and plucking at their sleeves.

Herbert Hoover is 90. We are glad he is still with us. We have that much more time to appreciate him.

Battle Without a Blow

According to weekend battle dispatches from Put-in-Bay, invading forces were pinned down without a struggle and surrendered peaceably last Saturday night.

This was a surprise to tacticians of both camps in what had been looked forward to as one of the fiercest battles since Newport, Daytona Beach, Harlem and Rochester.

The last time Put-in-Bay was invaded, a year ago, thousands of "students" flocked into the community to attend the Interlakes Yachting Association regatta and erupted in an early-Sunday-morning riot that threatened to break up the town.

It was determined that there should be no repetition of the fiasco. Put-in-Bay didn't want to share the grief of Newport and Daytona Beach with riotous "students."

The police force was beefed up. There was perfunctory attention to liquor law enforcement inside bars and meticulous attention to law enforcement when the bars closed. Opened bottles were confiscated and emptied.

Policemen made it clear they didn't intend to be pushed around. They were ready with the instruments of their trade—night sticks, tear gas, fire hoses, handcuffs.

The would-be "student" rioters took one look and decided to call it a night.

This has bearing on the problem of keeping the streets of America safe, for non-rioters, a point being made vehemently these days by people who think American streets are for vehicles and pedestrians, not for rioting.

The Ultimate Horror

It took a long time for official discovery of the bodies of the three civil rights workers who disappeared in the neighborhood of Philadelphia, Miss., last June 21.

The ultimate horror of the incident emerges in the information that a private citizen's reward had elicited the information that made official discovery of the bodies possible.

There could have been no deep secret about what happened to the three men who were killed. They were killed in cold blood by residents of Mississippi who resented their presence.

The atrocity against the security of free citizens of the United States and their dignity as individuals in a supposedly civilized nation has brought no apology from the community in which they were killed, no apology from the governor of the state, no messages of condolence from any public authority.

The Mississippi delegation to the Republican National Convention was implored to discuss the incident. Only a few members of the delegation were willing to listen, and they placed the burden of blame on the three missing civil rights workers for being where they were. It was their own fault, as the Mississippians saw it, if they had met with foul play.

The ultimate horror of Mississippi is not that such a thing could happen but that it could happen with no contrition.

Think back! Weren't most of the things that upset you really not worth worrying about?

By Truman Twill

Brainstorming

Everybody who wanted to be frank and earnest about upward and forward with the free enterprise system a few years ago was twitchy about brainstorming.

Brainstorming had been developed, we were assured, into a masterful technique. All the best people were doing it. It was foolproof.

What you did was to put a bunch of people into a room, tell them to make themselves comfortable, then explain to them the theory of brainstorming.

Two heads were better than one and 20 heads were better yet. What you were going to do, you explained to the multiple heads, was give them a chance to show how smart they could be if they thought they dared to speak freely.

That was the big thing—they thought they dared to speak freely. It never had happened to them before.

UNDER ordinary circumstance, people called on to participate in brainstorming—to give top management the benefit of their collective wisdom—had kept their mouths buttoned up for fear of putting their feet therein.

They were victims of institutional brainwashing, which had reduced them to rubber stamps. They had been imbued with the company line, to the point where they confined all utterances to the gospel according to No. 1, as passed down from on high and trickled through to the lowly Indians by the intermediate straw bosses. Brainstorming was going to be a chance for the little fellows to bubble forth like intellectual artesian wells while the big fellows quaffed their fill of the outpouring. They were encouraged to say anything that came to mind—to talk freely.

There was only one thing wrong with this... two things if you looked at both sides.

The main thing was the way it undermined the prestige of management. Lo and behold, the Indians were as smart as the chief when they had a chance to talk freely, without fear of contradiction.

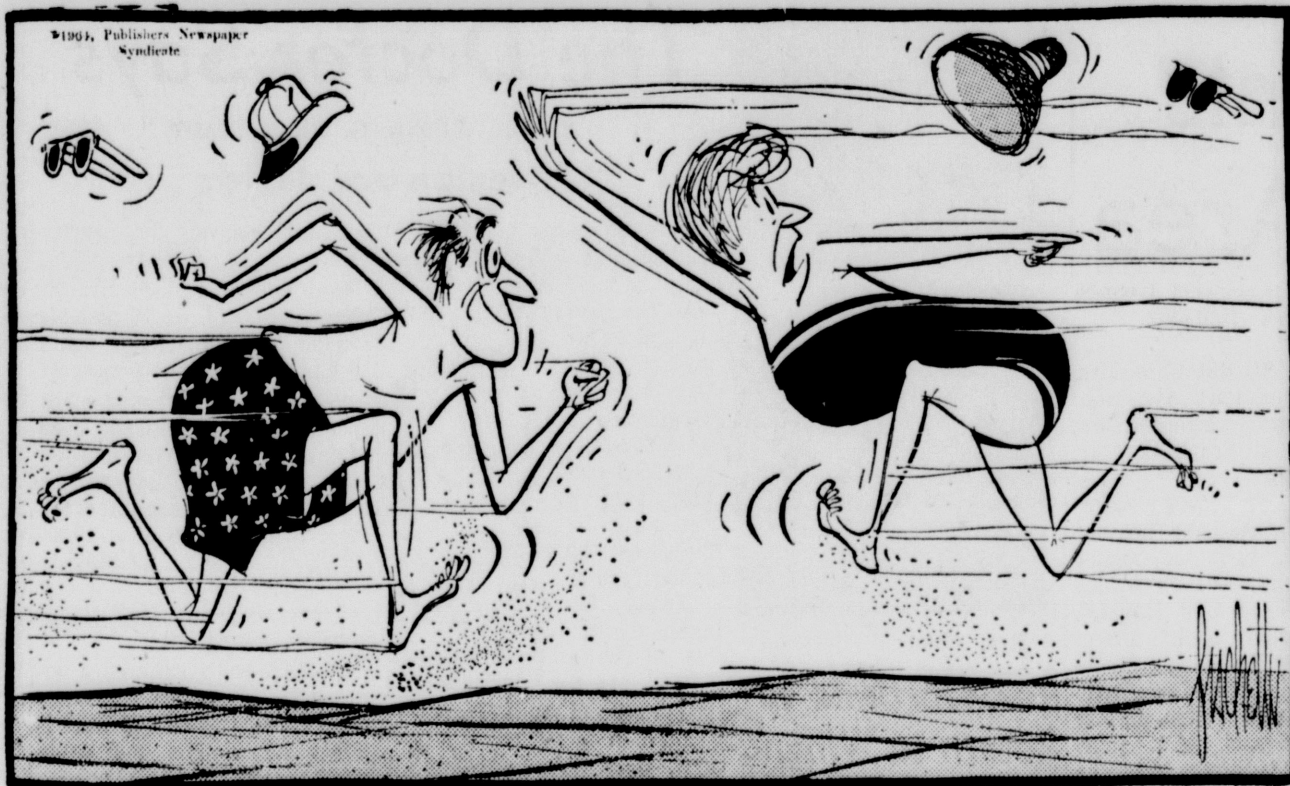

The other thing was the belated realization that the Indians not only were talking freely. They were talking for free.

IF THEY SPILLED everything they knew for the sake of playing management's brainstorming game, they had nothing left to sell if their chance came to move up a notch in the organization. Their brains already had been picked bare by opportunists boosting themselves to the top of the ladder.

Gradually, the big boys began to cool off and the little boys to freeze up. Brainstorming, which had started out like the biggest thing since inside plumbing, faded away.

No one talks about it any more. It served its purpose. The people who were barren of ideas refuted their think tanks.

What the country needs now is another brisk round of brainstorming to give its peerless leaders new ideas for grappling with old problems who will lead off?

The Peronist Split

By BARRY JAMES
Herald Tribune News Service

BUENOS AIRES — The two chief leaders of the three million Peronists in Argentina are together no longer.

After a bitter, internecine fight, Andres Framini, once the figurehead of the movement, has broken away to form a new group called "Peronists Loyal to Peron."

He accuses his rival, metalurgical leader Gustavo Vador, of trying to ditch the aging dictator and of personal power grabbing.

In this Framini is right. Vador, a former marine corporal, has ruthlessly worked his way to the top and is the only figure strong enough to eventually replace Peron as head of the movement.

Banned from fielding candidates in past elections, Peronists have found their outlet in the General Labor Confederation (CGT), which they now control almost 100 per cent. A bloc of independent labor leaders recently resigned from executive positions in CGT, leaving the field open for the Peronists.

THE PERONIST movement and CGT are now so closely inter-related that they are virtually the same thing. Under Vador's control the labor organization has been turned into a powerful political weapon.

Vador concocted the CGT battle plan in which workers temporarily seize factories and hold protest rallies. Many observers say Vador plans in this way to bring down the government and bid for increased power in a subsequent regime.

Peron apparently approves, for he wrote Vador telling him to keep stirring trouble and assuring him, "If I had to choose anybody to be my successor, it would be you."

Both Vador and Framini claim Peron's support. Both claim that Peron will return to Argentina this year after his nine-year exile. But the former dictator seems unwilling to leave his luxurious retreat in Madrid for the time being. Instead, he seems content to meddle from afar, playing one side against the other, keeping his name alive and his movement in ferment.

The government reportedly is delighted by the split. Congressional and local elections are due next March, and Peronists will be standing candidates.

If Peronist blocs go to the polls, there is less chance of the movement gaining a major victory as it did in March, 1962. In that year Framini hit the headlines by winning the governor-ship of the Buenos Aires Province—helped by the fact that Peron himself shared the ticket for a time.

BUT THE MILITARY annulled the elections and ousted President Frondizi for having allowed them. Obviously this government does not want to risk another such fiasco.

The Peronist split first became public when Framini, guitar-playing leader of the textile workers, was beaten in party elections by Vador. Before the elections, Vador's supporters showed around the union halls a movie in which Peron exhorted his followers to vote for Vador. Charging fraud and vote-padding, Framini asked Peron to annul the elections, exhorted his followers to vote but that call has gone unheeded.

Vador, who is followed everywhere by gun-toting bodyguards, now aims to ensure his faction makes a good showing in the elections next March.

He controls the executive committee of CGT, which is the most powerful voice of Peronism. But, unlike Framini, he lacks a popular public image. He is a shrewd tactician but not a leader of masses. He hopes to remedy this, however, between now and March.

Framini, with his appeal to Peronist loyalty, strikes a sympathetic chord in the movement and should not be underestimated.

In short, the split is deep between the dissimilar and powerful pair fighting for the same ends.

Both leaders are planning to visit Peron in Madrid. Vador will seek moral support, which he hopes will aid him in forthcoming elections, and Framini will try to regain his former status as custodian of the Peronist movement while its leader is out of the country.

'Leniency' And Criminals

By RAY CROMLEY

Federal Bureau of Investigation studies of 56,126 offenders already have produced figures which lead some government crime specialists to privately question the effectiveness of our present methods of probation, parole, conditional releases and suspended sentences.

These preliminary studies were on offenders "actively handled in 1963" whose records were available to the FBI.

A fourth of this total had only one arrest on their records. But 75 per cent had been arrested an average of 4½ times each.

According to their criminal histories, 52 per cent of these repeaters had received "leniency" (the term used in the study) in the form of probation, suspended sentence, parole or conditional release. Of these, 68 per cent received "leniency" once, 20 per cent twice and 12 per cent three times or more.

MORE THAN HALF OF those arrested for murder or serious assault had been previously granted "leniency" for one crime or another. Almost a tenth of those arrested for murder or serious assault had previously been granted "leniency" three times or more.

The average man or woman arrested for murder or serious assault had a criminal record going back 13 years. He or she had been arrested an average of eight times. The 56 per cent who had been granted "leniency" at one time or another for some crime had an average of five arrests after having been granted that first "leniency."

SINCE THE YEAR 1925, 14 special agents of the FBI have been slain in gun battles. Twelve of these 14 were killed "by criminals who had been paroled, placed on probation or had received some other kind of lenient consideration from the courts."

Two-thirds of those arrested for robbery, burglary, auto theft, bogus check passing and sex offenses previously had been granted "leniency" for one crime or another. The average man or woman arrested for robbery had an average criminal career of 13 years, with nine arrests. The two-thirds who previously had been granted "leniency" had an average of six arrests after the first "leniency."

THESE PRELIMINARY analyses show one other thing—the youthful age at which most repeater criminals first violate the law.

Of the 56,126 cases studied, 66 per cent had been 24 or under at the time of their first arrest. Forty per cent or more were teen-agers when first arrested. Most had crime records which spread out more than a decade.

The crime specialists don't have solutions. But FBI speakers regularly quote Judge Sam Tatum of Tennessee, who said: "I became judge of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court on June 1, 1939. Since that time I have tried approximately 8,000 boys and girls under 17 years of age for violating the law."

"Of that number only 42 were regular in attendance in Sunday School or church."

OSU Makes Pay Study

A 6½ per cent increase in starting pay was reported for Ohio State University Commerce College graduates registered with the College Placement Office during the past year.

Male bachelor of science degree graduates placed between July 1, 1963, and June 15, 1964, began at a median monthly salary of $535, some $35 above the previous year's median, according to Jean Francis, placement director.

The annual report from the Placement Office showed that students with master of business administration degrees placed during the year began at $625, the same as the previous year.

Other highlights of the report showed that:

Supply of applicants with B.S. degrees increased 12 per cent over the previous year.

Job openings—one indicator of demand—decreased 8 per cent from 1962-63.

Interviewing schedules—another indicator of demand—increased by 9.6 per cent over the previous year.

The marketing field showed the greatest demand as reflected by job openings, with accounting second.

Some 90 per cent of all commerce registrants found employment within two weeks after graduation.

Most applicants—67 per cent—went with Ohio firms, while New York drew 6½ per cent, the most of the applicants accepting jobs outside the state.

Some 18 per cent of the men with B.S. degrees and 3 per cent with master's degrees went directly into military service.

White Backlash Problem

By JOSEPH R. SLEVIN
Herald Tribune News Service

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is being urged to counter the white backlash in the big industrial cities by taking a strong stand against right-to-work laws.

Administration aides have been searching for an issue that can provide a rallying point for white union members, and they believe the hated right-to-work measures are the answer.

Johnson needs a powerful, emotional argument to overcome the anti-Negro resentment that has boiled up in many labor districts. No issue has a stronger appeal to organized labor than a threat to union security.

SOME 20 STATES now have right-to-work legislation, and there is continuing business pressure to enact the anti-union shop laws in many other states.

The voters whom the Democrats are worrying about are people such as the normally pro-Democratic Italians and Poles in Baltimore who went or Alabama's Gov. George Wallace against a Johnson ticket in this spring's primary; the Gary, Ind., steelworkers who voted for Wallace, and the normally liberal Democratic Poles in Rep. Clement J. Zablocki's Milwaukee district who overwhelmingly backed the Southern segregationist.

The strategy of the administration aides calls for having President Johnson personally make right-to-work a major campaign issue by reminding the voters that Sen. Barry Goldwater is an outspoken supporter of the laws, even though he has emphasized he wants the decision to be left up to each state—not nationally.

THE ADVISERS want Johnson to declare his stand in Detroit, where he will follow Democratic Party tradition by opening his campaign on Labor Day morning.

Johnson will hammer on the need for social security, more generous minimum wage protection, Medicare and other bread-and-butter programs that Goldwater dislikes. But the administration strategists believe none packs the wallop of right to work.

The white backlash means that Johnson cannot take labor for granted as some analysts had thought he could if Goldwater were nominated—and the strategy that is being devised indicates that the President will disappoint those who had expected him to move toward the right to neutralize part of the Arizona conservative's attraction.

THE CUTTING EDGE of the Johnson campaign against right to work would be a pledge to repeal the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act provision that permits states to enact the union restrictions. Democratic platforms repeatedly have called for repeal.

However, Johnson will have to do some talk explaining. He voted for Taft-Hartley as a congressman and voted to override a veto by President Truman.

Later, while a senator, he endorsed right to work in Texas. But his advisers will warn the President that a failure to take a vigorous stand against right to work and for social welfare legislation will cost him a large share of the labor vote in November.

Keeping Cool In Summer Is Just Knowing How

BEING A LIFE GUARD has its advantages during the hot weather. Here Linda Whipkey, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Whipkey of 1262 Eastview Dr., gets set to dive into the pool at the Salem Golf Club, where she maintains a watch over other swimmers.

DURING THE HOT WEATHER, Nina Renee Alexander, 5, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. V. Alexander of 320 N. Howard Ave., knew how to keep cool and read a book at the same time.

HOT WEATHER BREAK — Noon time for Winnie Catlos, 23, of 2280 Edgewood enables her to enjoy the fountain on the Village Green. Winnie is a travel consultant at the County Motor Club office in the background.

TOPLESS BATHING SUITS are no problem for cute tots like Michelle Renee Breault, 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Breault, who toddles about in this manner at the home of her parents, 447 Penn Ave., when the temperature gets too hot.

YOUTHFUL ANTICS don't get your steamed up, especially if you've a pool in your own backyard. Barbara Wendel, Peggy McCarthy and Joanne Wendel enjoy themselves as the water flies. Barbara and Joanne are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wendel of 206 W. 10th St. and Peggy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven McCarthy of Lakewood.

WARREN WASHINGTON, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Washington of 570 W. Wilson St., knows how to keep cool. Riding a go-cart, Warren wears a real "cool hat." It's full of ice cubes.

EIGHTEEN-MONTH-OLD Nicki Zamarelli shows off her best form as she relaxes in the portable pool at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zamarelli, 940 N. Ellsworth Ave. Yes, that's a popsicle in her right hand.

RELAXING FROM HER DUTIES as life guard at Westville Lakes, Linda Ward, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ward of RD 1, Salem, enjoys the cool, refreshing water. She is credited with saving Howard Adams from drowning four weeks ago.

CHILDREN CAN ENJOY themselves, regardless of the weather. After recent thundershowers, these youngsters put on their bathing suits to play in their own "pool" at the intersection of Penn and Walnut Streets.

A NEW ROAD

"Let's find a new road!" That's a game we play often when we take a family ride.

These little journeys of discovery have led us to some beautiful, serene sections of our community that we never would have seen if we'd stayed on the busy highway.

At times, life itself can seem like a crowded, noisy highway. The years rush by . . . we promise ourselves that some day we'll take the time to look around us and try to understand where we are and why . . . but worldly interests tend to fill every minute to the brim. We wonder why the pleasures that we work so hard to obtain fail to bring us happiness . . . and we sense that life has a deeper meaning, if we could find it.

The Church can guide you and your family to a new, wonderful road. Discover the warm fellowship, the renewed courage, the refreshing peace of mind that grow from membership in your neighborhood church.

'Gumshoe' In Spiked Heels

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
PARIS — (NEA) — This woman is dangerous, although at first glance she looks like a no-nonsense, athletic type of girl. Her fully hyphenated name is Anne-Marie-Albert-Lebro, just

25. She is the only licensed woman detective operating in Paris. A little over a year ago she put up her shingle in an office building on the Champs Elysee. Since then business has been very good for this female private eye.

A brunette with sparkling teeth and a mop of windswept hair, bright eyes hidden behind dark glasses, Anne-Marie radiates good humor and buoyant health. Her handshake is vigorous. Her favorite sport is judo.

Her office furniture is feminine — a couch covered in sky blue leather against a scarlet wall in the waiting room. In her office proper she sits behind a glass-topped desk, swept clear of clutter but with two telephones. No bottles of liquor in the wastebasket. No stuffed and mysterious filing cabinets. Two modern chairs and a thick, black carpet.

Anne-Marie has 10 associates, most of them ex-policemen.

MADAME DETECTIVE said she prefers criminal investigations to the messy business of getting evidence in unsavory divorce cases or to delving into the background of a prospective bride or groom. "Very French, this premarital inquiry," she pointed out.

She herself handles most of the important investigations — like tracking down industrial spies, loss of confidential documents, jewel thefts, blackmail and inheritance tangles.

In the past year Anne-Marie's assignments have taken her all over Europe and to New York (only for a 48-hour stay). She understands English, speaks it haltingly.

THE QUALIFICATIONS for her job? "A woman must be energetic, strong, well-disciplined and devoid of home ties if she is to do a serious job." Her husband died two years ago.

Anne-Marie thinks she can accomplish more than a man detective. "Women can change their entire appearance so easily. I can make myself look like a streetwalker, a shon girl or don a nun's garb and nobody will know the difference. "Also, people are less suspicious of a woman. I have often gathered information sitting on a bar stool without anyone guessing what I am really doing there."

Sometimes her youth and sex put people off, but usually prospective clients are ready to give her a chance. Women come to her because she is a woman. "And men too, for that matter," she added with a twinkle in her eye.

NEITHER ANNE - MARIE nor her associates can expect help or protection from the police when on a job. They all have to rely on their fists and knowledge of judo. They are forbidden to carry guns.

When in her teens, she became interested in juvenile delinquency. This, she believes, is what led her to private detective work. She then studied at the International Center of Police Studies.

Her fees range from a couple of thousand to as little as $100. It all depends on the nature of the investigation and the time it takes before Madame Detective can pick up her telephone and announce, "Mission terminée."

Leetonia Woman Is Top Ceramic Artist

Helen Spatholt's Hobby Has Turned Into Avocation

By GLENN SCHOTTEN

LEETONIA—To most people the dollar sign ($) means simply money. To people who know an outstanding ceramic artist here it means the initials of her given and married name her trademark. It stands for Helen Spatholt.

The $ sign has been a profitable symbol for her. Her business has provided not only extra money from her products and from teaching but also is an outlet for her late-blossoming creativity and a method of relaxation.

WHEN SHE ISN'T occupied helping out at the family hardware store on Main St. she enters her world of clay and glazes and kilns. In her basement workshop and classroom she comes into her element.

The smells of the hobby-business are a sort of catalyst to her personality. "It gives me a real thrill to smell gold drying in a kiln; it makes me want to get busy and create something," Mrs. Spatholt says. "Some people say gold smells like onions; but I like onions!" she added laughingly.

Luster drying in the kiln is another pleasant odor that prompts her to action. She and her classes have been working heavily in lusters and glass lately as a departure from ceramics. Currently they have been turning out decorative old-fashioned wick lamps in cranberry or amber luster dressed up with white foliage and flowers.

IT'S NOT ONLY the fairer sex that she has taught in her 15 years of ceramic art. Some of the area's professional men have adopted the art as a hobby. "They claim it relaxes them in the same way that an artist finds relaxation in painting" she says.

HELEN SPATHOLT, a Leetonia professional and business woman, hand-paints a decorative bottle tinted by her in her Ceramic Room. Nearby is a cranberry-luster, old-fashioned wick lamp. Her work includes all types of ceramics, all initiated with "$", her trademark standing for the initial "S" of her name.

District folks who attend the annual Columbiana Street Fair Sept. 10-12 will have a chance to see specimens of Mrs. Spatholt's handiwork displayed in a booth.

She has become an expert at making fragile ceramic dolls. Her real forte in the ceramic business is decoration which she does with a skillful easy flourish.

HER AVOCATION began in Youngstown in 1949 when she took a ceramics course at the YWCA. From then on she attended every school she heard of to pick up pointers even those which she thinks might be repetitious.

Before Debbie Reynolds made a name for herself in the cinema her aunt was a teacher of Mrs. Spatholt in El Paso. The Leetonia woman also studied under the famous Lucille Henderson decorator for the prominent Winfield china people in California.

The Leetonia artist is in big demand in the region where she gives lectures and demonstrations for other professionals and amateurs in the field.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear little laundresses: That's us, gals!

Why do we wash all our sheets in one load, bath towels in another? Because mother did, that's why. Or books recommend it. Or because we have been doing it that way for years and years.

If you have white towels and white sheets, try putting one sheet in your machine and adding two bath towels, a few hand towels and some wash cloths and then giving it a spin. The sheet (and towels) just might be glad to shake hands with each other!

THE ROUGHNESS of the terry cloth towels will rub against the smooth sheets and buff and scrub the soil away much easier and better than if a smooth sheet rubs against another smooth sheet.

And you should see the results we got (while testing in the laundry today) by mixing pillowslips and bath towels. Amazing!

After all, we have so many bath towels and so many sheets each week, so toss them together and see what wonderful results you get.

I'm sure that you all know not to mix colors together. White articles should be washed with white, etc.

We also tried washing some pale-colored bath towels which had been washed MANY times before, with some of husband's OLD colored sport shirts and they came out beautifully. Again the rough towel did its miracle scrub.

You might try it. After all we have so many pounds (or is it tons) on washday and the loads come out the same.

I think you will love the results you get.

I sure did!

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

If you are one of those blind bats who wear glasses—and some days you still cannot see what you are reading—if you are lucky enough to have an old pair, put one pair on top of the other and watch the print magnify!

I nearly dropped dead when I found this out.

BLIND BAT.

And I nearly dropped dead when I tried it! It works. HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Have you ever tried making book covers out of wallpaper samples?

I covered some of our books (the ones that look shabby). They turn out beautifully and really dress up our bookshelves.

These sample wallpaper books can be purchased at any wallpaper store.

I use a laundry-marking pen to print the titles of the books on the covers.

BET

DEAR HELOISE: I took my dingy white candles from the candle sticks and was ready to toss them out, but decided to try washing them in detergent and not too warm water. They look like new again. Try it!

ANNIE.

DEAR HELOISE: If you are uncomfortable because of tight bedcovers on your feet, just slip a pillow under the covers at the foot of the bed. This works beautifully.

CLAIRE MACKENZIE.

DEAR HELOISE: I made some small bags of nylon net and put a short drawstring around the top. I half-filled these bags with moth balls and hung them on my coat hangers with the clothes and sweaters.

The moth balls do not actually touch the clothes, but the nylon net allows the moth ball aroma to circulate through the closet.

The small nylon net bags, in all colors, look attractive in the closet and solves the problem of moths.

LEONIE S.

DEAR HELOISE: I'm 12 years old and a Girl Scout.

In response to Mrs. Kroll, who wrote in asking how to keep clothes dry on a camping trip:

The Girl Scouts have an effective method . . . if you put all your clothes in a large plastic bag, the clothes will not get damp.

JANET BROWN.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

College Romance

Marriages Pass Happiness Test

Marriages made in college are far more successful than most, according to a recent survey.

And here is the experts' explanation: "There are no social pressures on married college students.

"They are not expected to buy new cars, smart clothes, better furniture to keep up with the Joneses, and in these first unpressured years they can really get to know and understand each other in a relaxed and carefree atmosphere."

ISN'T THERE AN IDEA here for all young couples just beginning their marriages?

If married college students can do without "things" for a few years while they complete their education, why can't other young couples give themselves two or three years of casual, inexpensive living? Why need they strain the budget with monthly payments on a house, a new auto, a dishwasher, a television, an automatic washer and dryer, a house full of new furniture—and so on?

Why should a young couple feel they have to start out with everything in order to be happy?

Whom do they have to impress?

IF A YOUNG COUPLE has more fun and gets along better living very simply in a furnished apartment than in a house full of unpaid-for-furniture and gadgets, why can't they give themselves this kind of a break?

They can then ease gradually into acquiring the things they want, instead of getting everything at once and being swamped by installment payments.

Meanwhile, they have had those few carefree years in which to find out that in order to be happy they don't have to keep up with the Joneses — or anybody else.

Day Approaching?

Will Women Someday Repair Appliances

Is the day near when women will repair their own major kitchen appliances — washing machine, dish washer, dryer?

It is possible, admits appliance engineer, John C. Martin, who says we get closer to that goal as manufacturers continue to reduce need for the servicing of machines.

Service men may not melt as ice men did when refrigeration replaced the ice box, but they certainly have less to do. Along those lines Martin illustrated by showing the newest advance in agitator-type washing machines — a unit minus pulleys, belts, crank case, oil pump. The whole idea of liquid lubrication has been a problem from a service standpoint, he says.

WOMEN ARE SUPERIOR to men in assembling precision parts, and as a matter of fact they are a lot cleverer about products than most engineers give them credit for. So I guess they could do repairs. Some of them do now. I gave up long ago trying to design products the way I thought they ought to be. We design them the way they tell us to," he explains.

Appliance service calls have been cut 48 per cent since 1958, he points out.

One helpful gizmo used by service men in the last three years has been a small instrument analysis box that plugs into the washing machine and registers the exact trouble on light indicators.

"That way the service man doesn't need to take the machine apart to find a small problem. He can fix it right in the house, rather than take it out—something we don't like," he says.

Women are eager for innovations in the house, but they are unaware that technological achievements take time.

"WE NEVER REVOLUTIONIZE, we evolve. This new roller - drive washing machine motor has been tested for six years. There will be some wonderful things in the future—and they are being tested now. But it takes time."

For example, the dishwasher patent is 107 years old. Imagine how useful it could have been in the 19th Century for overworked mothers. But how could we have had dishwashers when people were pumping water from wells. Besides proper plumbing, special detergents had to be evolved. There were 11 manufacturers of dishwashers in 1926, Martin points out, but even then they were not snapped up — maids worked cheap.

FREEZERS HAD TO WAIT until the distribution and shipment of frozen foods could be worked out. Electronic cooking has been around for some time, but it requires different recipes, different methods of processing foods, and so forth.

"Many people get so enthused about the broad picture of something, wondering why it isn't made. But you can't run ahead of your support, the other things needed to make it jell.

The girl who has an eye for smart clothes would do well to keep her fingers on her knitting needles.

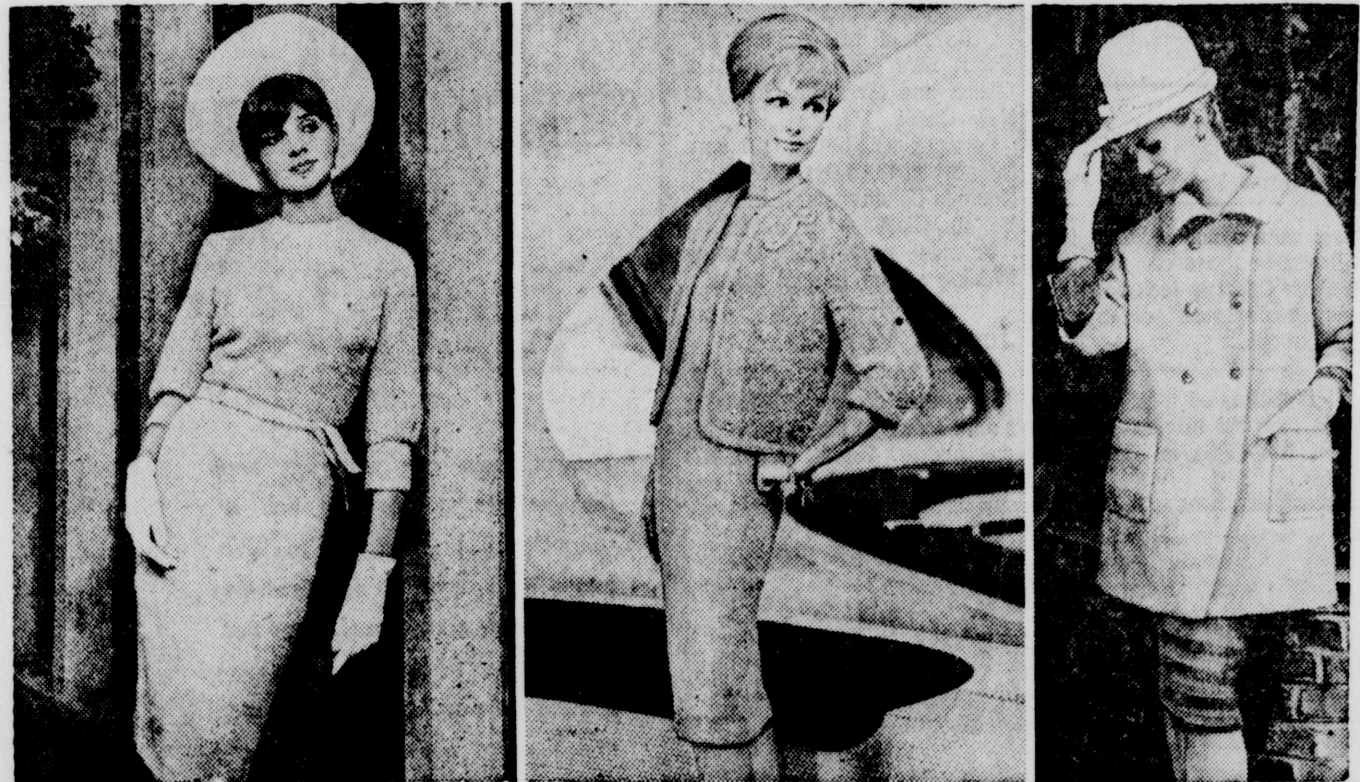

Handmade knits offer the individuality she seeks in the way she dresses.

Designers of fashion to knit yourself have come up with many clever patterns. These designs run the gamut from suits, separates and dresses to coats and jackets — many of which will go from daylight straight through into the late hours.

ALWAYS VERSATILE, THE dress and jacket costume turns up for knitters in different guises this year. A slim little slip of a dress can go out sight-seeing under cover of its own cardigan jacket, while alone it takes to white gloves and pearls for an evening out.

Other dresses feature skirts with a hint of flare or with simulated pleats. They are usually knit in a combination of stockinette and pattern stitch, with the pattern stitch sometimes repeated in the brief little covering jacket.

For the accomplished knitter there are dresses to be worn with their own full-length coats, the dress worked in a light weight yarn, the coat in a bulky wool yarn.

Great for travel is this handsome dress (left) for knit-it-yourself fans to make. Knit on simple lines with its jewel neckline and deep-cuffed push-up sleeves, the dress can change its manners according to the accessories and the occasions. It is knit in a pattern stitch to simulate a textured look. Handsome dress and jacket (center) is worked in an easy-to-do pattern stitch for a light and lacy effect. The cardigan, in loopy-textured wool yarn, is knit in a simple stockinette stitch and edged to simulate braid trim. Shaped on haberdasher lines (right) is a handsome three-quarter coat accented with large patch pockets. A trim Johnny collar frames the neck. Sleeves are mid-arm length.

The luscious colors of the variegated weights of wool yarn will tempt many to become members of the knit and purl club.

So if you want a wardrobe tailored just for you, knit it yourself and weave a harvest of usefulness.

Meeting Scheduled For Leetonia Faculty

LEETONIA — Anticipating the start of another school year, Leetonia administrators are mapping plans for a two-day orientation and briefing program for old and new teachers before classes begin Sept. 8.

Executive head Victor Wood said pre-school meetings are being arranged for Sept. 3 and 4.

The first day will be to provide information to new teachers on policies, textbooks and other matters. The entire staff will convene the second day for discussions of general operating problems and materials to fill out required forms and to review lesson plans.

A new gimmick this year is subject matter booklets with suggested ideas for teachers in every course of study. They were prepared by committees of local teachers in the various fields.

Wood said an educator will be contacted soon to be guest speaker at the general session Sept. 4.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD Hostetter of Struthers will be honored guests at a fellowship luncheon at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the Mennonite Church.

The couple, who are members of the church, have been appointed by the Teachers' Association for a three-year teaching assignment in Tanganyika, and expect to leave within a week.

Evening service at the Mennonite Church will begin at 7:30 with Curtis Nussbaum of Kidron, who will show pictures and tell of his work as a pay-man for two years in Algeria.

PLANS WERE discussed at the Leetonia - Washingtonville Booster Club meeting Thursday for the annual "kick off" picnic for coaches and football players, to be held Sept. 5 at Townsends Lake near Leetonia.

Other business at the meeting included an announcement that bids are being accepted for additional lighting at the football stadium. It was announced also that the final payment had been made for the stadium bleachers which had been purchased some time ago.

Dick Gregory, president, named Paul Rance, Jim Rance and Al Stumpo to work as a committee for the picnic.

PRISCILLA CLUB of St. Paul's Lutheran Church met Thursday at the church to continue its project of making cancer pads, which are given to the Lisbon branch of the American Cancer Society.

The club started the making of pads last October and, since that time, members have made over 1,000 pads eight inches square. According to Mrs. Orrin Deffenbaugh, president, unless more materials are donated, the club will have to discontinue its sewing.

Muslim or any absorbent material is used. Materials may be brought to the church or Mrs. Deffenbaugh of 87 Wilson St. may be contacted for information.

Lunch was served by Mrs. W. A. Windram. Mrs. Nell Morris was a guest.

Next meeting will be in the form of a picnic.

John Thompson, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Somer St. has returned from visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Neel of Lisbon. His sister, Diana, is visiting them this week.

With Patients

Nick Jurina of 484 S. Broadway is a medical patient at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Cleveland.

Dorcy Nocenti, 24, of RD 1, Salem, was treated for lacerations of the right leg and released from Alliance City Hospital at 11:20 p.m. Friday after he was kicked by a horse.

Stolen Truck Found; 1,168 Tires Missing

A van-type truck loaded with 1,168 Goodyear passenger tires when stolen Aug. 1 in Akron was discovered empty Thursday afternoon at Interstate Truck Stop at Routes 7 and 14 east of Columbiana.

State patrolmen from the Lisbon post recovered the vehicle about 4:40 p.m. and notified Akron authorities. The outfit carried Indiana licenses.

by many motorists to bypass Lisbon traffic.

The 1963 convertible seized Friday in Lisbon by federal agents who said it was being used to transport "numbers slips" had been under surveillance for several months by the sheriff's office acting on information supplied by the East Liverpool Review circulation department.

Miss Eleanor Watters, a Review motor route driver, became suspicious after noting the actions of the driver while she was making deliveries about eight months ago. She feared a possible holdup.

She encountered the car on County Rd. 417, on Route 45 in West Point and on the Berry Farm and Roller Coaster roads near Lisbon.

Miss Watters informed Robert Conroy, Review circulation manager, who advised Sheriff Russell Van Fossan.

Advised to report any suspicious actions, the Review employees worked with the sheriff's office for several months but were unaware of the reason for the surveillance until federal agents seized the car yesterday.

TV-Radio Today

By DICK KLEINER

When you see a "T-Bird" or a Corvette Sting Ray or a Chrysler Imperial in a movie or a television show, it isn't an accident. The business of placing automobiles in these spots is highly competitive.

Each of the major car manufacturers — Chrysler, Ford and General Motors — maintains offices in Hollywood for the specific purpose of getting its vehicles in front of the cameras as often as possible.

To that end, they maintain fleets of cars of all colors and body styles, ready at the drop of a stick shift to be used in a close-up. Frequently, long-term deals are made between a manufacturer and a studio, so that, in return for a certain number of cars on hand as studio transportation, the studio will use that maker's cars exclusively.

TELEVISION PROGRAMS that have car sponsors pose a particularly ticklish problem to the manufacturer. "Hazel," Shirley Booth's NBC comedy, is a Ford-sponsored show. Walter Taylor, Ford's ambassador to the movie-television world, says that the biggest headache is the introduction of the new models.

"During the critical weeks," Taylor says, "just before and just after the new models are introduced, we try to have the show use no cars at all. And then, of course, we use the next year's cars. It may seem easy, but this is done months before and the planning is difficult."

They must bring out from Detroit the prototypes of the new models. And the set becomes closed, with great secrecy surrounding the shining, hitherto-unseen models.

Taylor says he ordinarily has "several hundred" cars at his disposal. The reason for the large number is that he must have virtually every model and a variety of colors, so that he can meet any reasonable request.

At the end of the car year, these vehicles find their way into commercial channels and are sold as demonstrators. They have generally acquired considerable mileage.

No money changes hands between the car companies and the movie and television people. The manufacturer is happy: his product is seen by millions (hopefully). The producer is happy: he gets the use of a new car for nothing.

Files $152,000 Suit For Traffic Injuries

LISBON — A New Waterford man is suing a Youngstown truck driver and the truck owner for a total of $152,000 as the result of a motorcycle-truck collision June 18, 1963.

Lloyd D. Townsend, New Waterford RD 1, filed the companion suits Friday in Columbiana county common pleas court for himself and son Daniel, 13, who was riding behind him on the cycle.

Townsend said he was driving south on Route 7 when a northbound truck proceeded to turn west into township road 857 near Middleton. The cycle hit the side of the truck.

Townsend, an assembler mechanic for E. W. Bliss Co. at Salem, says he was unable to return to work until June 1 of this year. The son was injured less severely.

In each case, Townsend seeks $75,000 for himself and $1,000 for the boy.

The defendants are Richard F. Fitzwilliams and Al - Mar Supplies, Inc., Youngstown.

July Court Income Here Totals $2,862

Fines totaling $2,862.73 from criminal and civil cases handled in July were collected by Judge Luther Donbar of Northwest County Court here.

Total disbursements in July were $2,134.86 with $543.15 to the state treasurer, $663.85 to the county for percentage of highway patrol cases, $695.36 to the county for court costs, $100 to the county for constable fines, $23.05 for sheriff fees, $10 to the Division of Wildlife, $6.35 for city police fees and $93.10 for constable fees.

A total of 175 cases were heard in July, 155 of which were criminal and 20 civil.

4-H News

Rally Set Sept. 28

LISBON — Columbiana County's Annual 4-H rally will be held Sept. 28, and the advisers recognition banquet will be Oct. 8 at Crestview High School.

Planning began here Thursday when the County 4-H Council met at the Extension Service office with the Rev. Frank Hare of Hanoverton R 1, in charge as chairman. The location for the rally is indefinite.

Mr. Hare appointed a committee to nominate persons for council, and will name another committee to study the present 4-H enrollment program in the county.

Council voted to change the minimum age rule for club membership from "10 years old Jan. 1" to "10 years old Jan. 1 or in the fourth grade."

Early Memorial Day exercises underscored the North's victory in the Civil War, but as new wars were fought, it became an occasion for honoring all Americans who died for their country.

Bears Rally In 2nd-Half To Trim All-Stars 28-17

Wade's Passes Spark Chicago

Mira, Taylor Share Collegian Spotlight

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The victorious Chicago Bears missed Willie Gholston and the scrappy collegians discovered the "Graham Cracker" too late in Friday night's 31st All-Star game.

The champion Bears of the National Football League, trailing 10-7 at halftime, rode to a 28-17 triumph mainly on the reliable passing arm of veteran quarterback Bill Wade.

But the big thrill for a Soldier Field crowd of 65,000 came in the final quarter as Coach Otto Graham used two quarterbacks simultaneously — Southern California's Pete Beathard and will-o'-the-wisp George Mira of Miami (Fla.).

With Beathard as main ball handler and Mira as a lonesome halfback, the Graham maneuver produced a lively finish just as the game seemed to bog down after the Bears muscled to a 23-10 lead.

Mira kept taking flat passes from Beathard and either scampered for yardage or flipped passes from his wide vantage point.

With 26 seconds of the game left, Mira rifled a five-yard touchdown pass to another brilliant All-Star performer, halfback Charley Taylor of Arizona State.

It took the Bears quite a while to build up steam in their attack which was outpounded on the ground by the All-Stars 187 yards to 94.

Ron Bull, who must carry the NFL load at the halfback spot he shared with the late Gale Sayers, carried nine times for 35 yards, top Bear rushing effort. Galimore and end John Farington were killed in an auto crash 14 days ago. Last night's game was preceded by a moment of silence in memory of the two.

On the other hand, the scampering Mira rambled 56 yards on four carries and two other All-Stars — Taylor and his Arizona State teammate Tony Lorch, also bettered Bull's yardage.

Taylor, who was a one-man gang himself, carried seven times for 36 yards and Lorch punched 38 yards in six tries.

Early in the second quarter, the fleet Taylor — headed for the Washington Redskins — streaked for a 29-yard gain on a Beathard pass that set up a 14-yard field goal by Ohio State's Dick Van Raaphorst for a 3-0 All-Star lead.

Later in the second quarter, Taylor recovered a Bear fumble on the Bear 18. Two plays later, he took a pitchout from Mira and hurled a 14-yard touchdown pass to Georgia Tech end Ted Davis for a 10-7 All-Star lead at halftime.

And it was Taylor scoring himself on a five-yard shot from Mira just before the game ended.

Beaver Polo Squad To Face Cleveland

The Beaver Valley Polo Club will entertain Cleveland at Darlington, Pa., tonight at 7:30.

Beaver Valley is enjoying one of its best seasons with a record of 9 wins and three losses. Cleveland, ahead of Beaver Valley in league standings, has tasted defeat three out of four times this season at the hands of Darlington.

Beaver's team features Jim Watson and Phil Thompson of nearby Columbiana. Both formerly played on Salem's team.

Other riders Bob Waterson, Paul Powers, Ron Tetmanza, and Glenn Tetmanza, all live near Beaver Falls, Pa.

Franks' 47 Is Low In Valley Tourney

Olive Franks of Poland took medalist honors with a 47 in the weekly women's tourney at Valley Golf Course, Columbiana.

Other winners were Betty Decker of Youngstown, low net 28; Etta Moorehead, low putts 18; Dottie Yokley, closest to the pin on No. 2; Roberta Hawkins, longest drive No. 5; Dorothy Murphy, longest putt No. 9; Judy Altomare, best poker hand on odd holes, and Doris Powers, best poker hand on even holes.

In the junior division, Valerie Powers posted the low gross 55, Jerrie Bertelsen carded low net 28, and Karen Southerin came in with the low number of putts 20.

By MARK W. MILLER

The Salem Softball Association's 8th annual tournament will get underway Aug. 22 and continue for three straight weekends.

Akron Roger and Louie's, the 1962 - 63 championship squad which played under the Angie's Pizza banner, will be back to defend its title.

Tournament Director Jim Harrigan has lined up the top three units from a year ago and teams from West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Michigan.

A limit of 16 games will be permitted to participate, with games to be played at Kelley Field and Memorial Park.

With the Church (slo-pitch) League a big success in its first year of action, it is expected that the loop will expand next year.

LOU SLABY was impressive in the Giants' intra - squad scrimmage which attracted 12,000 fans to the Fairfield University, Conn., site recently.

In a sports article in the New York Times, Slaby was lauded for his defensive work as a middle linebacker.

The 245-pound former Salem, Pittsburgh University athlete, is one of 55 candidates trying to make the Giants' professional football team.

When the season opens Sept. 13, the roster of all pro teams must be limited to 40 players. Slaby was a member of the Giants' taxi squad a year ago.

BUD SHAFFER FORD will sponsor the Classic A League at Saxon Lanes this year. Last season the loop was one of the strongest in the county.

A total of 10 teams rolled at that time, and there are vacancies for interested squads to participate in the scrum league which will bowl every Wednesday night at 9.

Anyone interested should contact Charles Montgomery, secretary of the loop, or Joe Vogelhuter at Saxon Lanes.

Bud Shaffer League organization meeting will be held at Saxon Lanes Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Barber Hurls Orioles Into First Place In AL With 2-0 Win Over New York

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Steve Barber is not having one of his great years, but he has just won permanent possession of Jim Bouton.

Since Bouton pitches for the New York Yankees, he makes a splendid addition to the Barber trophy room.

Barber turned the trick over Bouton for the third time this season Friday night, as the Bal-

Starks Posts 4-0 Class H Victory

Four runs in the last two innings gave Stark's Colonial Athletic a 4-0 victory over CIO 1538 in junior baseball Class H competition at Buckeye Field Friday.

CIO 3816 (10-3) forfeited to Famous Market (3-11) in Class E, and Knights of Columbus (11-6) was awarded a forfeit Italian Club (6-10) in Class G.

Ernie Emmerling of Stark's, and Tom Warren of CIO 1538 were hooked up in a pitchers duel for four innings, then the winners broke through for two runs.

Up until the fifth Warren had a no-hitter. Following an error which put Tom Ewing on base for Stark's to start the frame, Ron Libb broke the hitless spell with a single. A single by Jim Harrigan scored both runners.

In the two-run sixth, Ewing singled for Stark's only other hit. Emmerling, in pitching his shutout for the winners, had good control. He walked only one batter, struck out five, and allowed three scattered singles.

Warren, who also went all the way, gave up two walks, and fanned eight batters.

With Rod And Reel

By TOM JAGER

Fishing in the district lakes this weekend should range from good to excellent.

Walleyes are being caught at Berlin and Tappan reservoirs. Over at Lake Milton, the catfish are hitting while walleyes seem to be tapering off.

Westville Lakes has good fishing for bass, blue gill, perch and crappies. Guilford reports fishing as good. There, bass, catfish, and blue gill are hitting. Zeenick has good fishing.

Streams in the southern part of Columbiana County are still poor for fish, but occasionally a few are caught.

THE OHIO DIVISION of Wildlife reports that streams in the rest of the state should see a lot of action as most waters are clear and normal.

In the central district there is fair to poor fishing. A few streams are yielding bass. Bluegills and catfish are being taken at the lakes.

Lakes and ponds in the Northwest section are productive, with bass, blue gills and bullheads being taken.

In the Northeast section, Westville Lakes, Guilford, Zepednick, Milton and Berlin Reservoirs are doing from fair to good. Largemouth bass and blue gills are hitting good at the lakes.

SOUTHEAST SECTION fishing is fair. Muskies are being taken regularly at Piedmont Reservoir. Other catches reported include crappies, catfish, blue gills and bass.

Lake Chev Vel at Lisbon reports trout fishing at its best. Over at Clendening bass fishing has picked up. A new member was taken into the Clendening Lake "Five Pound Club." Danfield Lutz of Hartsville caught a five and three quarter pound largemouth bass by trolling the center of the lake. He used a South Bend Ding Bat lure.

Bass from 18 to 22 inches have been taken on a purple Shim-Shammer.

Catfish have been biting real good at Clendening. George Armbruster of Akron landed 4 channel cats, using hickory shad for bait. The channels weighed 18 pounds together. Blue gills and perch are also hitting.

"My Greatest Sports Thrill"

DiSalle's Came During Lima's Uphill Climb In 1939 For Ohio Baseball Title

By MIKE DISALLE

For The Associated Press

How can one who has been actively interested in athletics, not only as a participant but as a fan, select one moment above others as the one possessing the greatest sports thrill?

Would it be the first time I accidentally hit a baseball as a first grader at Jefferson School in Toledo—or would it be the time I started playing in my first high school football game—or closing my eyes and sinking a long basket in the closing seconds of a hotly contested neighborhood game?

Would it be watching George-

(This is one of a series on "My Greatest Sports Thrill" by prominent Ohioans from all walks of life, written exclusively for The Associated Press.)

Michael V. DiSalle, author of the following, is a former Toledo mayor, federal price administrator and governor of Ohio. Currently he is a practicing attorney in Columbus.)

stadium meeting a highly touted New York University football team and completely botting up the famed Ken Strong.

It could be a World Series game, or even sinking a long put on the 18th green, or the second shot for an eagle on a 400-yard par 4 hole.

But I suppose the greatest sports thrill of my life came at the end of an exciting baseball season. In 1939 I was president of the Lima baseball team in group of rather young but risk-taking entrepreneurs took a franchise, built a stadium, put in lights and began to recruit a baseball team.

More than 100 would-be-greats reported for the first workouts at the Lima Y.M.C.A. Class D ball clubs didn't go south for spring training. Many youngsters returning from early cuts at spring training camps in the south stopped off at Lima.

The season opened with Lima losing seven games in a row. After winning one, we lost 14 more. So, with the season well under way, we stood one win—21 losses. Many changes were being made. We had the traditional ball club—one there, one leaving, one coming in.

Finally, with Lefty Settlement, the former Red Sox pitcher, managing the club, Lima began to click. The New York Yankees helped with a couple of players. Lefty Biscan was cut by Mayfield and reported to Lima. Harlan Kiersey, killed two years later in World War II, reported as a brilliant third baseman from the U. of Missouri.

On the last day of the season, Lima tied Chappy Geygan's Fremont club for fourth place and a chance at the playoffs. In a sudden death single game, Lima came from behind to win a spot in the playoffs.

In the playoff semi-finals in the last inning of the last game, Lima beat Grover Hartley's Findlay club.

The big thrill came in the final game in the final section of the Dewey Stover's Mansfield club, and the series was tied at three victories each.

In the ninth inning of the final game, Lima was behind, 3 to 2, and Herb Wooden was at bat with the bases loaded. Herb was Lima's cleanup man and heaviest hitter. With the count three-and-two, he got hold of a pitch and hit a line drive to center—too sharp to be reached by Hank Edwards who later became a Cleveland star. Three runs raced home and Lima won the championship.

It wasn't a World Series. World War II intervened shortly thereafter and prevented most of the boys who played in the Ohio State League from going to the majors.

But it had been a long up-hill season, and the final truth had become greater than fiction. Who would believe that a club could "win it all" after losing 21 of the first 22 games?

Anyway, the sound of Wooden's bat hitting that ball was possibly my greatest sports thrill—and one I'll never forget.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: This is not a gag. I think you are a broad-minded person with a big reading audience and I hope you will help me.

The high cost of living has put me behind the 8-ball. No matter how I try, it is impossible to maintain a good address, decent clothes and have money left to drive a car and do some interesting things.

I'm 29 years old, unmarried, very good looking, an engaging conversationalist and am at home with all types of people.

I would like to make myself available (to high-type women only) for $30 an evening plus expenses. I want only to serve as an escort — so please don't assume anything beyond that. I have a new sports car and well-cut clothes.

Hundreds of women sit at home simply because they do not know an attractive, respectable man who will take them out. I could give a woman a wonderful evening in exchange for this modest stipend.

Will you help me to help them and myself at the same time? —R.M.

Dear R.M.: I can't think of a printable name to describe your line of work, but "escort service" is a widely employed euphemism. Look in the phone book and line yourself up. (Your city has one.)

P.S.: If a dame doesn't have $30, how much would you charge for allowing her to stand at the curb and watch you drive by?

Skinny Brother

Dear Ann: I'm a 12-year-old girl with a 4-year-old problem—my brother.

He is a very good eater when it comes to candy, ice cream and popsicles, but when it comes to regular meals he leaves half of his meat and doesn't even touch his vegetables. He hardly ever drinks his milk.

Fifteen minutes after he walks away from the dinner table he is begging Mom for popcorn or a glass of lemonade. How come he has room for such things when just a little while before he said he couldn't eat another bite?

My brother is very skinny and I'm afraid he will not grow if he doesn't eat right. I have tried to explain this to him but he doesn't understand. Will you help me? — SISTER OF A SKINNY BROTHER.

Dear Sister: You cannot expect a 4-year-old to understand such things, so stop wasting your time. Concentrate instead on your mother.

She is permitting your little brother to develop some mighty poor eating habits. Children who don't finish their meat and vegetables should not be allowed to fill up between meals on candy and lemonade.

Modern World

Dear Ann: Our daughter is 20 years of age. Alicia's divorce will be final in a few months.

This is our problem. Alicia has been working out of the state. She met a young man and wants to marry him. She has written to ask us if she may bring the young man home with her when she returns in about a month. Alicia wants permission to have him live in our house until he finds a job so they can be married.

My husband says this arrangement sounds scandalous and he refuses to consider the idea — unless you approve it, Ann.

I don't know what to say because I realize times have changed since I was a girl and I want to be fair. Can you advise us? — OLD-FASHIONED.

Dear Old-Fashioned: How

lucky can one girl get? Not even legally unwound from one mistake and here she has another man (unemployed yet) all lined up to move in. Tell your daughter nix on the boarder-roomer routine.

A person who is not legally divorced is still married. And folks who are NOT married should not be living together. This should put an end to the Great Debate.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Three From Warren Killed In Accident

NORWALK, Ohio (AP)—A collision between two autos killed three members of a Warren family and injured another person Friday night on the Ohio Turnpike four miles west of the Norwalk-Sandusky interchange.

Dead are Angelo Iannucci, 43, his wife, Esther, 40, and a son, Michael, 9. Injured was Helen Hackett, 56, of Dearborn, Mich.

The Highway Patrol said the Hackett woman's eastbound auto crossed the medial strip and smashed into the side of Iannucci's westbound car.

Grange News

Smith Plans For Fair

Plans for the grange display at the Canfield Fair were made when Smith Grange met Monday at the hall.

The kitchen committee announced that the remodeling of the kitchen has been completed.

A program theme of "Vacation" was carried out with Harry Watkins discussing a trip to Canada and the north central states and Mrs. Verla Turner told of a trip to the World's Fair. Mrs. Russell Woolman described the experience of having Roelofje Lubberink of Holland as a house guest for three weeks.

Next meeting will be Aug. 17 when election of officers will be held.

Butler Program Held

The 90th anniversary of the founding of Butler Grange was held Aug. 2, at the Grange Hall. Participating in the special program were: Mrs. Lowell Whinery, Mrs. Joseph Ward, Dale Miller, Mrs. Oliver Conser and George Walton.

Recognition was given the 50 year members: Mrs. Claudia Mountz, Mrs. Mabel Sanor, Merle Mercer and Joseph Ward. Mrs. Mountz was presented a 60 year pin. Past masters present were Lowell Whinery, Wood had charge of the guest book.

GIRL 1, DROWNS

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ida Mae Maley, who would have been two years old next month, was found dead in a plastic wading pool in her back yard Friday.

Authorities in Suburban Mount Healthy said she drowned in 20 inches of water. She was found by her foster mother, Mrs. Gehl.

2ND TRAFFIC VICTIM

Ashland, Ohio (AP) — Jayne Drushal, 19-year-old daughter of the dean of the faculty at the College of Wooster, is the second person to die from injuries suffered in a car-truck collision at the intersection of U. S. 30 and Ohio 5511 Thursday. The girl died at Ashland Samaritan Hospital Friday. Her father, J. Garber Drushal, also is president of Wooster City Council.
